Forgotten Books, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Self Education: An Address Given Before the Boston Architectural Club, April the Third, 1909 Many of you will have had the advantage of a thorough technical training in your chosen profession; be grateful for it. Others, like Topsy, just grew - or have just failed to grow. For the solace of all such - without wishing to be understood to disparage architectural schooling, which is growing increasingly excellent and increasingly necessary - I would say that there is a kind of education which is worse than none, for by filling his mind with ready-made ideas it prevents a man from ever learning to think for himself; and there is another kind which teaches him to think, indeed, but according to some arbitrary method, so that his mind becomes a canal instead of a river, flowing in a predetermined and artificial channel, and unreplenished by the hidden springs of the spirit. The best education can do more than to bring into manifestation that which is inherent; it does this by means of some stimulus from without - from books and masters - but the stimulus may equally come from within; each can develop his own mind, and in the following manner: The alternation between a state of activity and a state of passivity, which is a law of our physical being, as it is a law of all nature, is characteristic of the action of the mind as well; observation and meditation are the two poles of thought. The tendency of modern life and of our active American temperament is towards a too exclusive functioning of the mind in its outgoing state, and...
