We throw out the following suggestion. Let every planter in these islands sow, on the banks between his young plant canes, rounceval or black-eye peas. These ought to bear in Six or eight weeks - the quickest food crops to be grown. It is true that in dry weather, which is to be expected at this time of the year, a large return is not likely to be obtained, but unless an absolute drought is experienced, a moderate yield will probably result, if the peas are sown much more closely than is the usual practice in rainy months. The growing of peas in this way is not likely permanently to injure the young cane plants, but will assist in keeping down weeds In six weeks time there will be some food at least being produced. Supplies of these peas for planting can probably be obtained quickly from St. Vincent and Trinidad. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
