RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 68 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : The Office, 1998 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)40938564 Subject: Criminals -- United States. Excerpt: . . . B-276684 fines and restitution but acknowledged that the references did not include s Financial Investigation Desk Reference. In the Central District of FJC California, we interviewed 11 supervisors, only 1 of whom mentioned a handbook from the Federal judicial center when commenting on the guidance available from the AOUSC. This supervisor also stated that he saw memorandums from the AOUSC, but the memorandums were general, not AOUSC specific. Two of the supervisors cited s Monograph 109: Supervision of Federal Offenders. One of these supervisors cited Monograph 109 and little else, adding that Monograph 109 is general, not specific. One cited general guidelines and a training program 5 or 6 years ago that included a video, but no ongoing training. Other responses from supervisors AOUSC concerning guidance included cant think of any, hasnt seen anything, and interpretation of statute only. AOUSC In addition to the guidance provided by, both districts we reviewed Local Guidance Provided provided local guidance to probation officers on determining an offenders by the Districts ability to pay fines and restitution. The Central District of California provided both (1) a supervision handbook, which included general instructions on the need to establish installment payment schedules and (2) a training module on financial investigation, which included the need for completion by the offender of a personal financial statement and incorporated some of the FJC training on financial investigation. However, as with the guidance provided by the, the local guidance lacked AOUSC specifics, leaving it up to the individual probation officer to decide how installment payment schedules should be established. In August...
