Editions Universitaires Europeennes EUE Aug 2011, 2011. Taschenbuch. Condition: Neu. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - L'amélioration génétique des espèces d'Eucalyptus fut l'une des préoccupations de notre pays. Elle a pour but de sélectionner des variétés de plus en plus adaptées et productives, pour répondre aux besoins sans cesse, en bois, en pâtes à papier et en huiles essentielles. En partant des hybrides naturels et artificiels et de leurs espèces parentales, nous avons étudié l'effet de l'hybridation interspécifique sur le rendement et la composition chimique des huiles essentielles des eucalyptus. L'huile essentielle du clone 583 est caractérisée par une forte prédominance du 1,8- cinéole (84%) par rapport à celle de son espèce parentale E. camaldulensis (42,3%). L'étude des huiles essentielles extraites de cinq croisements génétiques à base d'E. camaldulensis () et des eucalyptus : E. grandis, E. globulus, E. diversicolor, E. maïdeni, E. cladocalyx () a montré que L'hybridation a une influence quantitative et qualitative sur les huiles essentielles des hybrides, ainsi que sur la distribution énantiomérique de trois monoterpènes. La distillation fractionnée et l'activité antimicrobienne des huiles essentielles ont été également étudiées. 168 pp. Französisch.
