Now, though old and poor, I do not despair; I am ready, if it be Gods will, to persevere unto death. And he died so, being stoned to death at Bugia, in Africa, in 1314, after gathering a little flock of converts. --Sunday at Home. 1500. Zeal, Puritan. Thomas Wilson, the vicar of Maidstone, during the Commonwealth, rose at two or three oclock on Sunday mornings, called his family together at seven, and read the Scriptures and sang psalms till between eight and nine, that all might be ready to attend public ordinances. Then he began the service at the parish church by singing two staves of a psalm, and praying for a blessing, and afterwards he expounded for one hour, according to the hour-glass in his desk. The same space of time was occupied in preaching. Having spent most of the interval between one service and another in singing hymns and in similar devotional exercises, he reappeared in his pulpit in the afternoon, and did as he had done in the morning, only that he expounded the New Testament instead of the Old. In the evening he called his neighbours together and asked questions respecting the sermons they had heard, and, after a recapitulation of them, with additional singing, he concluded with prayer. One would have...
