Excerpt from A Patriotic Creed for the Rising Generation of Canadians The object of formulating a (reed of patriotism such as is referred to in these pages, is a tentative one. Some people may be inclined to look upon it as being: soon-what please in its tone. And otherwise hardly in keeping. with the rudimentary intelligence of any Rising: (it is left to the purpose of those, who have the issue of such a pamphlet as this in hand. Is merely to place its suggestions before the more matured intelligence of the present generation of Canadians, so that they may be able to leave some kind of a -defined (reed of Patriotism in its place as it will no doubt have to be in a more form. Its aim is to aid those coming after these unsettling war-times. In maturing a lasting: Canadianism in line with a higher moral morality. Those in charge of the educational processes. That tend to promote a patriotism and a mutual good-citizenship for the time being, are not likely to eliminate from their horizon the ethical uplift of the future. Whatever form may be offered itself to them as a fitting medium of getting young: and old to appreciate what their fullest duty is towards their own homeland and those who share in its governance. When we Canadians of the present day and generation come to see what is amiss in that governance and its civic ethics, we are not likely to be long: in agreeing upon a form suitable for the rising generation to learn how the State, through them, may be protected from a wayward citizenship, which...
