AUTHORHOUSE, United States, 2008. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Fixing the Ungodly Mess confronts four of America s most pressing national challenges: . Breaking dependence on killer coal and oil . Making health care affordable for all Americans . Remaking lagging educational systems for the global economy . Reducing political gridlock in Washington Here you are taken into devastated towns and suffering households of Americans terrorized as they pay a deadly price for energy. Exposing outrageous political chicanery and killer-dirty secrets of a taxpayer-subsidized industry on a rampage, this jolting alarm for America screams out for change. The nonpartisan proposals offer unprecedented solutions to rock national leaders to action. In my opinion, these CEOs should be tried for high crimes against humanity and nature James Hansen, Ph.D., climatologist and director of NASA s Goddard Institute for Space Studies, testifying on Capitol Hill in Washington DC in 2008. He was referring to the CEOs of large coal companies and their refusal to transition to renewable energy. Bud Fultz is particularly gifted at weaving stories of real people in with his research and proposals for change. His accounts of the people of Appalachia and the region s plight are chilling, eye-opening, and pragmatic; however, he doesn t leave the reader simply with problems, but proposes a panoply of solutions to challenge, inspire, and, ultimately, foment change.
