RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 44 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : U. S. General Accounting Office, Office of the General Counsel, 1997 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)56563559 Excerpt: . . . V. Sanctions CASE 3: Protesters counsel unilaterally prepared a redacted version of an GAO agency's report, which was identified as protected under the protective order, and informed the agency that counsel would release the redacted version if not otherwise informed by the agency by the close of the next business day. The agency was unable to object to protesters counsel's proposed redacted version before the release of counsel's redacted version to counsel's client, who was not admitted to the protective order. Counsel's redacted version of the agency's report contained source-selection-sensitive information that was protected under the protective order. Counsel's release of a proposed redacted version of a protected document without the affirmative agreement of all other parties (GAOs' agreement where the parties disagree) was improper. Given that (or the unilaterally redacted documents did not appear to contain information whose release provided the protester with a competitive advantage or prejudiced the agency or any other party and that it did not...
