

History Lessons A Memoir of Madness, Memory, and the Brain

By Clifton Crais

Overlook TP. Paperback. Condition: New. 272 pages. Dimensions: 0.0in. x 0.0in. x 0.0in. Born in Louisiana to a soon-to-be absent father and an alcoholic mother who tried to drown him in a bathtub when he was three, Clifton Crais spent his childhood perched beside his mother on a too-tall bar stool, living with relatives too old or infirmed to care for him, or rambling on his own through New Orleans, a city both haunted and created by memory. Indeed, it is memory both elusive and essential that forms the center of Crais's beautifully rendered memoir History Lessons. In an effort to restore his own, Crais brings the tools of his formal training as a historian to bear on himself and his family. He interviews his sisters and his mother, revisits childhood homes and pores over documentary evidence: plane tickets, postmarks, court and medical records, crumbling photo albums. Probing family lore, pushing past silences and exhuming long-buried family secrets, he arrives, ultimately, at the deepest reaches of the brain. Crais examines the science of memory and forgetting, from the ways in which experience shapes the developing brain to the mechanisms that cause the chronic childhood amnesia, the most common and least understood form of amnesia from which he...
