It was occupied at first by a free church, of the Presbyterian order; but in 1840 it passed into the hands of the Broadway Tabernacle Church, then newly organized upon Congregational principles. For twenty-one years this spacious edifice provided accommodations for multitudes of young men and strangers desiring to hear the gospel, and for the great convocations of Christians during the Anniversary week, and on kindred occasions. But the encroachments of business compelling families to remove up town, made it difficult, if not impossible, longer to sustain a church in that locality; and in 1857 the Tabernacle was sold, and the last religious service was held within its walls on the 26th of April in that year. A site was selected for the new Tabernacle at the intersection of...
