Forgotten Books, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from News Notes of California Libraries, 1977, Vol. 72: Official Journal of the California State Library A lot of it is paper, and people get upset about the red tape. They get upset about the piles of paper that have to be shuffled every day. But in some ways, progress can be measured as the movement from shoveling dirt to shuffling paper. Now we're going to move on beyond that to using cathode ray tubes, to communication satellites and calling things up on display panels. That will be the next 25 years, and it's even happening now in many places. But it is a change. People often wonder, what's happened to manufacturing: we don't have enough manufacturing in California. We have the service industries, and yet it's very hard to find out what's a service and what's manufacturing. Do newspapers manufacture a product, or do they provide a service? If you ask the same question of many occupations, you find more and more people are involved in communications. We spend a great deal..
