Helpful Hints How to Get a Magazine Down from a Book Shelf WHEN you have at last discovered the particular magazine for which you have been searching, you will find it lying on its side with a lot of other magazines on a top shelf. It will always be the bottom one. Be calm. Do not go out and borrow from your neighbor the stepladder that really belongs to you, but which he has had so long he firmly believes he owns it, and do not then lift the top magazine off and, putting it in a safe place, lift the next one, and so on until the one you want is at hand. This would take too much time, and in these days time is more than money. It is coal, eggs and meat. Besides, if you pursued this method your wife would appear upon the scene before you were through and spoil it all by her intemperate and unsympathetic remarks. No! Grab the first chair there is--a cane-seated one if possible, as it isn't so hard on your feet, and if you...
