LOUISIANA CONSERVATIONIST, VOL. 43: MARCH/APRIL 1991 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (HARDBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2017. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Louisiana Conservationist, Vol. 43: March/April 1991 As this act opens, pelicans soar gracefully over the tops of gentle rolling surf and forage in their dramatic fashion of plunging from the air into clear coastal waters. In the distance, large colonies of young, noisy pelicans exercise their wings in anticipation of joining their parents in flight. One of these colonies is on Queen Bess Island, a small island in Barataria Bay north of Grand Isle. Queen Bess is comprised of shell ridges and pockets of low marsh. In addition to the pelicans, which nest on the highest portions of the island, numerous other bird species nest on the island, including laughing gulls, Sandwich terns, American oystercatchers and great egrets. This act closes in the early 19003, when an estimated brown pelicans called coastal Louisiana their home.
