Example: how much glass will be required for 6 windows, each 5 feet 8 inches high, and 3 feet two inches broad 4. Masons work comprehends all sorts of stone work; and it is measured by the foot, superficial or solid, according to its nature. Blocks of marble or stone, columns, walls, and c. are measured, by the foot solid: pavements, chimney-pieces, and c. by the foot superficial. Solid measure is used for materials, and superficial for workmanship. In solid measure, the length, breadth, and thickness, are multiplied together for the contents: in superficial measure, the length and breadth of each part are taken, whether on a plain surface, or projecting from the upright face of the building. All windows and doors are deducted from the contents of the walls, for the materials only:...
