The question is, can this levy be supported by the statute, which provides, that after due notice, if the debtor neglects or refuses, the officer may appoint an appraiser. The return of the extent states that the within named John Ellison having refused to appoint an appraisers I have appointed, c; and the question before the court is, whether this word refuse contains a sufficient allegation of due notice to satisfy the requisitions of the statute. I contend in behalf of the defendant, that it does not either upon the reason of the thing, or upon authority. 1. This allegation of notice is material. It may be of great consequence to a debtor to have...
