

Proudly We Can Be Africans: Black Americans and Africa, 1935-1961 (Paperback)

By James H. Meriwether

The University of North Carolina Press, United States, 2002. Paperback. Condition: New. New edition. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The mid-twentieth century witnessed nations across Africa fighting for their independence from colonial forces. By examining black Americans attitudes toward and responses to these liberation struggles, James Meriwether probes the shifting meaning of Africa in the intellectual, political, and social lives of African Americans. Paying particular attention to such important figures and organizations as W. E. B. Du Bois, Martin Luther King Jr., and the NAACP, he renders a remarkably nuanced portrait of African American opinion. Meriwether builds the book around seminal episodes in modern African history, including nonviolent protests against apartheid in South Africa, Ghana's drive for independence under Kwame Nkrumah, and Patrice Lumumba's murder in the Congo. Viewing these events within the context of their own changing lives, especially in regard to the U.S. civil rights struggle, African Americans have continually reconsidered their relationship to contemporary Africa and vigorously debated how best to translate their concerns into action in the international arena. Grounded in black Americans encounters with Africa, this transnational history sits astride the leading issues of the twentieth century: race,...
