The letters, speeches and pamphlets of Ennodius, deacon of Milan and Bishop of Pavia at the turn of the 6th century, provides a valuable insight into the social and religious complexities of life in Italy at the very beginning of the Middle Ages. Kennell s study considers Ennodius career as both writer and Catholic clergyman and reappraises his work, traditionally derided for its dependence on rhetoric, and argues that it should be regarded as a product of its time when the classical and medieval worlds collided.
