THE PLAGUE IN INDIA, 1896, 1897, VOL. 3 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Plague in India, 1896, 1897, Vol. 3 In Mr. Thornton's letter No. 1181 of the 2nd April, the Government of India suggested that either Dr. Lowson or Dr. Reade, who had worked at Hongkong during the outbreak of plague at that place, and had given most valuable advice to the Government of Bombay, should pay a visit to Bengal for the purpose of advising this Government. In my letter of the 13 April, the Lieutenant Governor expressed his wish to have the advice of Dr. Lowson on the question of the measures to be taken in the event of plague spreading to Calcutta. 2. Before this correspondence took place the Lieutenant-Governor had already had under consideration the question of modifying some of the regulations issued under the Epidemic Diseases Act, 1897 in the light of the experience gained in combating plague in Western India. That experience seems to show that the distinction between isolated cases and a well-defined outbreak, which was recognised when the Bengal Regulations Nos. 4 and 5 of 10th February were framed, cannot be safely maintained, and that whatever precautions may be authorised by law should be brought into force directly a single case occurs. Regulations Nos. 6 and 7 of the 12th March are, it is true, not based upon this distinction, but they are not as comprehensive as Nos. 4 and 5 of the 10th February, and in respect of segregation they are far more severe. It also appeared desirable that the Bengal regulations should conform as closely as possible to those in force in neighbouring provinces.
