FROM THE COUNCIL OF RAVENNA TO TSE WESTMINSTER ASSEMBLY. A. D. 1311-1644. Though the Council of Ravenna recognized trine aspersion and trine immersion as equally valid, the latter was only gradually superseded. Yet it is worthy of mention that the latest baptistery erected in Italy, that of Pistoja, which stands opposite the cathedral and is known as San Giovanni Rotondo, was built in 1337. The Council of Prague, in 1355, made the following decree: Let the presbyters take heed lest any negligence be committed, either in the putting together or in the expression of the proper form of words, as well as in the immersion in water, with which the whole value of baptism is connected. As to the form, let the immersion be trine, in this manner--that at once, when the administrator begins to utter the prescribed form, he does that..
