Excerpt: .who have elsewhere received the requisite instruction. Pupils of the elementary division are obliged to take all the subjects in a given yearly course. For bakers, waiters, cooks, butchers, musicians, dentists, clerks, vintners, coachmen, servants, and errand boys the instruction in drawing is optional. The elementary courses prepare for the special technical courses. The tuition is $1.43 per year. The first year s course was given in 19 parallel classes in 1906, with two hours each weekly in freehand drawing, geometric drawing, industrial arithmetic, and composition, and one hour each per week in bookkeeping and penmanship. The average number in each one of the parallel classes was 27. The second year s course was given in 16 parallel classes, averaging 21 each, with two hours weekly in projective drawing, arithmetic, and composition, four in free-hand drawing, and one in bookkeeping. A course without drawing (with civil government added) was given to 29 pupils. The courses of the technical division, in the evening, offer the opportunity for intensified instruction along higher special lines. Pupils of this division, whose age is seventeen or more, and who are sufficiently prepared, may choose their own subjects. Instruction is given in the months from October to May, exclusive, from 7 to 9 P.m. The instruction in drawing and modelling, however, is continued throughout the year. Tuition is $2.40 for six or eight months, and somewhat less for fractional periods. On the list of subjects are: free-hand drawing, ornamental drawing,...
