Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Oberlin Alumni Magazine, Vol. 2: July, 1906 Mark But his countenance fell at the saying, and he went away sorrowful for he was one that had great possessions. It is a characteristically compact and Vivid picture which Mark gives of the young man who runs to Jesus, as he is going out into the highway, throws himself on his knees before him out of the consciousness of a clean and upright life voices his further aspiration and wins from Jesus his look of love, only to find himself unable to respond to Christ's full call to abandon his wealth and follow him, and goes away with fallen countenance, sorrowful. The ordinary reader of the Gospel, it may be suspected, would underwrite this incident of the rich young ruler with the sub-title, A Hard Test. Dante, with keener insight, calls it The Great Refusal. For it is exactly this common inability to see that the failure to meet the hard test is a great refusal of life, that makes life's tragedy. We see the hardness of the test; Christ and Dante see the greatness of the life refused. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
