Excerpt: .race will appear no less great and commanding than the figure of Charlemagne a thousand years before. Mr. Fiske's book ought to be in every high himself. The noble Scotch family of Oliphant has no higher claim to distinction than its three literary names. The first, Caroline Oliphant, Lady Nairne (1766-1845), wrote some famous songs, such as The Land o the Leal and Wha'll be King but Charlie? The second, Margaret Oliphant Wilson Oliphant (born in 1818), is the author of several novels that are said to present faithful pictures of rural life in Scotland and England, of much clever biographical and historical miscellany, and, in conjunction with her son, Cyril Francis Oliphant, of the work now before us. The third name is that of the subject of her Memoir. Though of British parentage, Laurence Oliphant was born in Africa (1829), spent...
