C. 20013) : The Office, 1999. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)43797277 Subject: Civil defense -- United States -- Equipment and supplies -- Costs. Excerpt: . . . Appendix I Scope and Methodology We are aware that many items on our equipment list are being used in local jurisdictions for fire fighting and HAZMAT operations; however, for the purposes of identifying procurement costs, we assumed the notional city would have no preexisting HAZMAT capabilities. We consulted with federal government officials to derive procurement costs. As mentioned previously, our procurement costs are for operational equipment, do not reflect additional equipment that might be maintained as a stockpile, and may not reflect the actual prices a local jurisdiction might pay. Differences might occur based on the equipment manufacturer, quantity discounts, or the use of alternative equipment to serve the same function. To calculate the equipment sustainment costs, we applied a factor of 25 percent of the initial procurement cost (in current-year and then-year dollars) to each item for every year of our analysis. This factor was derived from discussions with local and federal officials, and it represents an average sustainment factor. A heavy vehicle would actually require a higher relative sustainment cost than an article of clothing. The average sustainment factor accounts for (1) general wear and tear, instrument calibration, and general maintenance costs of the equipment and (2) replacement costs for small-scale incidents and hoaxes. For example, a small-scale incident would be in a localized area and would not include mass casualties. Replacement costs due to a large-scale incident, such as the Oklahoma City bombing, were not considered. We did not include training...
