Excerpt: .does show that a. part of appellee s work was to sharpen the drills with which he worked and that he had always sharpened all his tools in the shop and usually on this particular wheel; that the superintendent was frequently about and saw appellee grinding his tools on this wheel, and that on one occasion the superintendent specially directed appellee to grind a drill on this wheel. We think that the evidence is amply sufficient to show that appellee was acting within the scope of his employment at the time he received his injury. It is also urged that the evidence shows that ap16. pellee was guilty of contributory negligence in choosing a dangerous way of sharpening his drill when a safe way had been provided by the master. We have discussed the legal phase of this question in passing upon the motion for judgment on the answers to interrogatories and it is not necessary to further discuss it here. We may say, however, that the evidence in this case shows that the way adopted by the servant was one of the ways provided by the master or, at least, a way recognized by him as a proper one. The facts and circumstances disclosed by the evidence were such as to warrant the court in submitting to the jury the question, and permitting it to decide whether or not, in view of the evidence, appellee acted with reasonable care and prudence. The fact...
