Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), which was enacted in 1994 and created a free trade zone for Mexico, Canada, and the United States, is the most important feature in the U.S.-Mexico bilateral commercial relationship. Mexico is the United States 3rd largest trading partner and 2nd largest export market for U.S. products. U.S-Mexico bilateral trade increased from $88 billion in 1993, the year prior to the implementation of NAFTA, to $507 billion in 2013, an increase of 476 percent. After a drop in trade following the economic crisis of 2008, U.S.-Mexico trade in goods has grown steadily; rising 66 percent from $306 billion in 2009 to $507 billion in 2013. Negotiations are now underway for the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP), with U.S. and Mexican participation. The U.S. and Mexico seek to boost U.S. and Mexican economic growth by increasing exports in a region that includes some of the world s most robust economies and that represents more than 40 percent of global trade. The TPP presents an opportunity to go beyond NAFTA and is anticipated to be finalized in 2014.
