Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Cooperative Marketing Alternatives for Sheep and Lamb Producers The current production-distribution system is relatively noncompetitive and inefficient and is continuing to move in that direction. Dwindling competition for sheep and lambs has been caused by the closing of several major packing plants. The closings have resulted in a reduction in the number of buyers competing for lambs in any given local area. The number of major plants in the United States has declined from 31 in 1970 to 20 in 1976 in response to declining sheep numbers. Even in 1970, the two largest packers in each Western and Midwestern State bought 50 to 75 percent of all lambs and in each Eastern and Southern State bought 75 to 100 percent. Because plants are currently operating at only 40 percent of capacity, more plants will close in the future and competition will be further restricted. Dwindling efficiency of the lamb marketing system is largely the result of low volume and an obsolete handling system. Inefficiency is evidenced by an ever-widening farm retail price spread for lamb that, since 1950-52, is growing 55 percent faster than the price spread for beef and 90 percent faster than the price spread for pork.
