Excerpt from The Encouragement of Higher Education: An Address by Herbert B. Adams, Ph.D., Associate Professor of History in the Johns Hopkins University, on Commemoration Day of the University, February 22, 1889 Maryland began her educational history by paying a tobacco tax for the support of William and Mary College. This colonial generosity to another State has an historic parallel in the appropriation of a township of land by Vermont for the encouragement of Dartmouth College in the State of New Hampshire, and in the corn that was sent from New Haven to the support of young Harvard. In colonial days Maryland had her county schools, some of them classical, like King William s School at Annapolis. All were founded by authority of the Colonial Government and supported by aid from the public treasury. The principle of State aid to higher education runs throughout the entire history of both State and Colony. The development of Maryland Colleges began on the Eastern Shore. In the year 1782, representatives of Kent County presented a petition to the Legislature, saying that they had a...
