Brand New Book  Print on Demand .In these stories, Dianne Nelson illuminates that vast territory of pleasure and pain created within modern families. Whether it is a father trying to kidnap his young son from his estranged ex-wife or a woman celebrating her ability to produce babies without any help from men, Nelson's characters reveal the dark, haunting and sometimes comic dilemmas of kinship. In the title story, seventeen-year-old April is an involuntary witness to the seemingly endless parade of lovers who frequent her mother's bed. I don't know why my mother finds no lasting peace she muses. Opening a book and trying to find her peace in facts, dates, the pure honesty of numbers, April is overwhelmed finally by the sounds of lovemaking from the adjoining room. The walls of this house aren't thick enough to keep that kind of sadness contained. In The Uses of Memory, Netta and Carlene are engaged in a different sort of mother-daughter drama. The issue at hand is the fate of Franklin, their husband and father, who lies in bed in a near comatose state, oblivious to the nurturings or pleadings of either woman. The past, with its countless repercussion on the present, tugs relentlessly at many of the characters. In Chocolate, the lingering pain of an impoverished childhood plagues Janice; she recalls, in particular, the birthday and Christmas celebrations, the meager gifts wrapped in the same brown twine that was used to hold the door shut. Hillary, the narrator of Dixon, is spurred into action by the memory of her dead brother. When a local barfly with silt for brains persists in telling outlandish lies about Dixon, Hillary takes up...
