Channing to James G. Birney My Dear Sir, I have not the pleasure of knowing you personally; but your history and writings have given me an interest in you which induces and encourages me to address you with something of the freedom of acquaintance. I feel myself attracted to the friends of humanity, and freedom, however distant; and when such are exposed by their principles to peril, and loss, and stand firm in the evil day, I take pleasure in expressing to them my sympathy and admiration. The first accounts which reached me of the violence which drove you from Cincinnati inclined me to write to you; but your Narrative of those riotous proceedings, which I have lately received and read, does not permit me to remain longer silent. The subject weighs much on my mind. I feel that I have a duty to perform in relation to it, and I cannot rest till I yield to this conviction till I obey what seems to me the voice of...
