Excerpt: . . . made ready for himself, that which contemporaries have called the repose of the Augusti (quies Augustorum), --which, however, was for him really the carrying out of a deep design, --he had chosen not to retire from the world until he had given this brilliant manifestation which was to immortalize his fame. From Ravenna he went to Aquileia and Istria, and probably as far as Salona, to make sure that all things were ready for his reception, 5 and then returned to Nicomedeia in the middle of 304. From this city is dated one of his last rescripts, --on the 28th of August of that year. Diocletian had been seriously indisposed during this journey. But he was not yet sixty years old, he had a robust constitution, MEDIUM BRONZE. 8 1 xiv. 6. 2 Lactantius, 17. It is probable that before leaving Rome he caused Maximian...
