Excerpt from Investigation of Communist Activities in the San Francisco Area, Vol. 3: Hearing Before the Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, Eighty-Third Congress, First Session, December 3, 1953 The absence of a United Nations War Council makes active progress in the field of international cooperation impossible. While there are hundreds of groups throughout the Nation at work discussing and discussing, the lack of a concrete framework within which to work has frustrated student efforts. That is the reason a great deal of emphasis is being placed on establishing the basic conditions for further progress in this field. Pressing for the United Nations War Council, working hard for the passage of the 18-year - old vote. Special credit for this work goes to Bill Caldwell, ex-editor of the Minnesota Daily. Bill was the framer of this resolution and led the fight in the Minnesota State Legislature for the passage of the 18-year-old vote. Bill realized that before any progress could be made in furthering the purpose of the resolution, something had to be done to give young people a voice. Along with studying the problems of the postwar world it is absolutely essential that we fight for such concrete measures to keep our perspective straight on the tasks at hand.
