Messrs. Wheelock Craig, John Girdwood, Timothy Stowe, Daniel Webb, and Rev. Messrs. Henniss and Tallon, of St. Mary s Church The old township of Dartmouth was purchased of the Indian Chiefs Wasamaquin and Wamsutta, in 1652, by William Bradford and others. The original tract included within its limits the present townships of Dartmouth, Westport, Fairhaven, a small part of Tiverton and Little Compton, and the city of New Bedford. The earliest settlers of this district were the Friends, and accordingly theirs is the first religious society noticed in the history of old Dartmouth. As far back as 1683, mention is made of meetings, and in 1699 a house of worship was built on the spot now occupied by that of the Apponegansett Meeting. Meetings were held at the Head-of-the-River (now Acushnet) at a very early date, and a building for their accomodation was erected about 1727. The first edifice ever erected in New Bedford for religious worship, by any denomination, was built by the Friends, in 1785. But although the Friends were the prevailing denomination, they were not the sole occupants of the field. Among the purchasers of the township was John Cooke, a Baptist minister, who organized a church in 1686, in what is now the eastern part of Tiverton. We hear of no other place of worship until the establishment of the church at the Head-of-the-River. The date at which this occurred is not certain, but there is reason to believe it was as early as 1696. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes...
