Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . The following preview will serve to illustrate where my story is heading. My story, Beyond The Curtain: A Story of Illusion begins in London due to its connection to The Bank of England. While the threat may be world-wide we shall simply concentrate on the U. S. arena. While my story is fictionalized, it is based on many scholarly reports and the investigations that serve to show the pervasiveness of corruption in the monetary sytem and how debt serves its masters while impoverishing the many. You may learn some startling facts along the way. The following information appears in the beginning of the book, SECRETS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE The London Connection By Eustace Mullins On the night of November 22, 1910, a group of newspaper reporters stood disconsolately in the railway station at Hoboken, New Jersey. They had just watched a delegation of the nation s leading financiers leave the station on a secret mission. It would be years before they discovered what that mission was, and even then they would not understand that the history of the United States underwent a drastic change after that night in Hoboken. The delegation had left in a sealed railway car, with blinds drawn, for an undisclosed destination. They were led by Senator Nelson Aldrich, head of the National Monetary Commission. President Theodore Roosevelt had signed into law the bill creating the National Monetary Commission in 1908, after the tragic Panic of 1907 had resulted in a public outcry that the nation s monetary system be stabilized. Aldrich had led the members of the Commission on a two-year tour of Europe, spending some three hundred thousand dollars of public money. He...
