Forgotten Books, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Mind and Body, Vol. 17: A Monthly Journal Devoted to Physical Education; March, 1910 to February, 1911 In another similar room in the same hospital, during the same period of time, I have been treating my typhoids. Occasionally, I have a typhoid under two years of age, most of them are over three, and the average age about six years. The typhoid cases come from the same class of patients as the pneumonias, and they do so much better in the fresh air that nothing could persuade me to return to the old method of treatment. Similar in every way to the present, but minus the fresh air. The rooms where the typhoids and pneumonias are kept have large windows on two sides, and an Open door on a third side; these are kept Open day and night; a distinct effort is made to keep the hands and feet of these children warm by gloves, stockings and hot water bags, but the rooms are always cold, except for a few minutes every two or three hours, when the windows are closed and all the children carefully examined as to cleanliness, etc The few cases of tuberculosis are kept in a special portion of one of the porches, living practically in the Open air. Arrangements are just being made for a special pavilion for these cases. In the Jefferson Hos pital the pneumonia and typhoid cases are treated by the fresh air method and do infinitely better than formerly, when the fresh air treatment was not employed. In private practice for five years I have treated all infants and children, sick and well, with fresh air; in fact, on my...
