Excerpt from Preliminary Guidelines for Prescribed Burning Under Standing Timber in Western Larch/Douglas-Fir Forests For many managers, understory burning is a new experience. Mistakes are often made during first attempts because some of the fire effects are not obvious at the time of the fire. In particular, the scorching of the crowns does not become apparent until days or even weeks after the fire. The fire may have all of the appearances of going nicely, only to show a severely scorched stand a few days later. The procedures de scribed for estimating the scorch are strongly recommended. Using these estimates the fire manager can adjust the fire as described and achieve the desired objectives with minimal damage to the stand. Ignoring these details will often lead to needless damage. Burning when the 0 to l-inch fuels are within the recommended range will yield fires that are effective and safe. Selecting a duff moisture content of the right value will give the added benefit of removing the desired amount of the duff layer.
