

Solo Flight Flying Lessons Before Knocking on Heavens Door

By Marie Hofer

Inkwater Press. Paperback. Condition: New. 136 pages. Dimensions: 11.0in. x 8.5in. x 0.4in. This book was sparked by the unusual inner prompting to get with it and author a book entitled Solo Flight. After initial bewilderment and resistance (and the dual meaning of the word flight duly noticed), I settled down to write my memoirs. Using recorded reflections, dreams, and my spontaneous drawings to guide me along, my first draft quickly materialized. However, to my surprise, the ending of my narration but seemed to be the prelude to the rest of the story. No further story being in my range of consciousness, I scrambled and objected; finally, though, I surrendered to opening the pages to my soul. Thus, my tale comes in two parts. Part I: My History chronicles in nine chapters how I, born and raised in the South Tyrolean, Italian Alps during the pre- and post-World War II era, grow up strongly influenced by traditional societal and Catholic values. After I had spent my young adulthood as a dedicated but spiritually troubled nun in a missionary order, a full-blown midlife crisis while on assignment in Asia challenges me to rethink my life's course. Subsequently, I leave the order, go...

This publication might be worthy of a read through, and superior to other. It normally is not going to charge excessive. Its been written in a remarkably simple way and is particularly just after I finished reading through this book through which in fact transformed me, alter the way I really believe.
