Excerpt: . . . appropriations acts. The legislation also requires that, no later than 4 years after its enactment, the OPM Director report to the appropriate congressional committees on the status of the programs established and the success of such programs in recruiting and retaining employees for national security positions. DOS, DOJ, and SEC used the SLR program more extensively and primarily Selected Agencies Use as a broad-based tool to retain more recently hired employees in specific of the SLR Program positions that require knowledge or skills critical to the agency. GSA, DOE, and DOT, on the other hand, used it in on a case-by-case basis as an Largely Depended on incentive to either recruit selected highly qualified candidates or retain Their Unique employees with skills critical to the agency. Commerce recently started to Recruitment and offer repayments, also on a case-by-case basis, for recruitment and retention. At this time, SSA, EEOC, and SBA were satisfied with their Retention Needs efforts using other recruitment and retention tools and have not needed to use the program. DOS heads the list of federal agencies in the number of employees DOS, DOJ, and SEC Use the participating in, and funds expended on, student loan repayments. The Program Primarily to Retain department began using the program in fiscal year 2002 and reported Employees making loan repayments for 734 employees in fiscal year 2004. Repayments toaled approximately 3.6 million. Officials from DOS noted that many of their recently hired employees have student loan debts. For example, most of the Presidential Management Fellows entering the department have eligible student debt, which automatically qualifies them for the benefit. DOS uses...
