The Greatest Comeback Ever: A Fan's Daily Diary of the 1978 New York Yankees Championship Season (Paperback)

By Paul Keck

Booksurge Publishing, United States, 2008. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . In 1978, a sixteen year old with a passion for the New York Yankees began to write a daily diary which covered all sports, but first and foremost Yankees baseball. Little did the author know of the sensational season that lay ahead for the New York team. Halfway through the season, the Bronx Bombers were buried in fourth place - fourteen games behind the red hot Boston Red Sox. As providence would have it, the author kept writing as the Yankees proceeded to engineer the greatest comeback in Major League Baseball history. The Greatest Comeback Ever has all the elements of a classic: the passion, intensity and humor of a team including Reggie Jackson, Billy Martin and George Steinbrenner; Martin's mid-season retirement and replacement, manager Bob Lemon; the Yankees four game sweep of the Red Sox in September, immortalized as the Boston Massacre, all leading to a remarkable one-game playoff in which the Yankees Bucky Dent hit his famous homerun to help win the AL East title. The Yankees then capped a brilliant season by defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers...
