Forgotten Books, 2018. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Speeches of Srj; Bepin Chandra Pal, Delivered at Madras Absence of the armed barons, in the absence of the pitiable condition of the English King, there could be no, -magna Charts. It should be some other Charts, but it would not be Magna Charts. But still, we had looked upon it as our Magna Charts - it was the custom in those days to think of every thing Indian in the terms of English life. If there was a great man among us, say Kalidasa, or, whoever he might be, he must be either a Shakespeare or Milton or Byron or Shelley. If there be a philanthropist, he must be a Howard. He counts for nothing unless he is a Howard. That was the mental attitude of the Indian people then and, on account of this peculiar mental attitude we looked about for our political documents and found this precious document in, the Queen's Proclamation. We called it the Magna Charts that is the psychological explanation, not that our leaders did not know that the forces that created the Magna Charts were not present in India at the time of the Queen's Proclamation. Whatever that might be, we regarded it as our Magna Charta, and we based all our appeals to the government upon that great Charter, and Lord Curzon thought that it was time to kill this foolish fancy and from his place in the Viceregal Council, he said that we did not read the Charter, read the Queen's Proclamation as carefully as we should have done. We would repeat it by heart (laughter) with all punctuations from beginning to end. Why,...
