Excerpt from Syphilitic Affections of the Nervous System, and a Case of Symmetrical Muscular Atrophy: With Other Contributions to the Pathology of the Spinal Marrow His rapidly failing power caused me to be consulted. On my first visit, I discovered what I then supposed to be a complication of constitutional syphilitic disease. On each internal malleolus I detected a node; also an abscess of the cranium, on the os frontis, which had been opened in Corfu by one of the military surgeons. The most positive denial of the possibility of a venereal infection restrained me from the employment of specific treatment. When the progress to death became inevitable, the patient related to me an incident in his life sufficiently confirmatory of my diagnosis to induce me to make one more effort to save life. The perusal of the case will show with what marvellous quickness mercury interposed to avert dissolution and bring about his recovery. In 1845 - 1847 a succession of cases brought this subject again under my observation, but upon those occasions with such significance and prominence of symptoms, that I deemed it my duty to offer the substance of my observations for publication to the editor of the Dublin Quarterly Journal of Medicine and Surgery.
