Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Attenuation of Pollutants in Municipal Landfill Leachate by Clay Minerals, Vol. 1: Column Leaching and Field Verification Leachate reduced the hydraulic conductivity of the columns during the laboratory experiments. A similar change in hydraulic conductivity was not clearly shown in the field data but probably exists. A ranking system was developed for evaluating the relative pollution hazard for municipal leachates. The new ranking method overcomes the problems found in a method for rating hazardous wastes that was previously proposed to the u.s. Environmental Protection Agency. The results of the study suggest that over-all pollution from land fill leachate would be reduced if landfill liners of earth materials were designed for higher hydraulic conductivity. Properly designed liners would selectively attenuate the toxic pollutants from the leachate and allow the ground water to dilute the nontoxic components that can be tolerated without harmful effects at much higher concentrations.
