By John Bailey Stewart

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Effects of Shading on Soil Conditions Tobacco has been grown on this plantation for four successive years, and during that period all the land has been treated alike, as to fertilization, cropping, and cultivation. The land being level and Of an even texture, was also favorable to the securing of trustworthy results. These facts eliminate the possibility of the difference in soil moisture being attributed to some other cause than the tent. Part of the 50-acre field was covered by a tent in which the records were taken. Observations were made also just outside.
