TIME, THE FOURTH DIMENSION: SCIENCE FICTION (PAPERBACK)

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Undoubtedly, all amongst you present here, are aware about one known interplanetary factor concerning Earth stations! Strategic locations of this same premier and priority scientific laboratory exist at -- sea levels, high altitudes upon Earth, and at yet higher altitudes surpassing 20,000 feet -- and of course, below sea level too. You also know that Earth's largest surface area space research lab, exists at 22,000 feet above sea level. This station is termed Earth - Forward space research Laboratory, priority One. Its location is concealed from interstellar view and this lab exists unseen, undetectable to extraterrestrial probes! Mountains permanently snow clad round the year, guard our highest space research station at twenty two thousand feet height. Again, each resultant individual lab area and hundreds of sub-stations are efficiently interconnected via approachable, internal module transportation routes. Ahem, now to our present topic. You shall find solace in the perusing one very important fact. Suspicion pertaining to existence of an oceanic type climate upon Uranus, dates back to 2200 C.E. ancient Earth time. Poets in that long gone age of the old, lost world were very lucid and descriptive! They classified Uranus Waters as the sole remedy in form of astrological solace; of course, within comparatively known star fields within our solar system. How exactly Earth's populace procured computerized evidence discovering Uranus properties-nearly three and a half thousand years ago prior to our present time zone-is a factor upon which modern day scientists refuse to dwell. That is primarily because we do not know how one may draw conclusive evidence related to such a long gone era upon Earth. However, time passed and ages overlapped further time zones transgressing...
