This formation has perhaps been less noticed by previous visitors to the Peninsula of Sinai than the Cretaceous, many of the rocks put down to the latter belonging in reality to it. Thus, in the map published by the Ordnance Survey of Sinai the southern part of the area is represented with fair correctness but in the northern part much that is Eocene is not shown. Similarly in Hulls map published with his memoir on Western Palestine, the whole of the southern part is shown as Eocene, whereas the main rock there is Cretaceous. Walthers map is on the whole the most correct published although he appears to be mistaken in putting as Eocene an area of..
