The Child in the World: Embodiment, Time, and Language in Early Childhood

By Author Eva M Simms

Wayne State University Press, United States, 2008. Digital. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. This book presents a dialogue between developmental research and continental philosophy that illuminates how children experience the world. The Child in the World builds a bridge between continental philosophers, who tend to overlook child existence, and developmental psychologists, who often fail to consider the philosophical assumptions underlying their work. In this volume, author Eva M. Simms draws on both psychological and phenomenological research to investigate child existence in its cultural and historical context and explore the ways children interact with the world around them. Simms examines key experiences of childhood with special attention to the non-dualistic nature of the child's consciousness and the understanding that there is more to the child's experiences than cognitive processes. In chapters that proceed from infancy to early childhood, Simms considers how children live their embodiment, coexist with experience and the spaces and places of their neighborhoods, have deeply felt relations to things, grasp time intuitively and often in contradiction to adult clock-time, and are transformed by the mystery of the symbolic order of play and language. Simms' approach is particularly informed by the philosophy of Maurice Merleau-Ponty, which allows...
