There are three success factors under this plan: (1) Intelligent leadership; (2) degree to which free discussion of phases of the foreman s job can be realized; and (3) interest of the foremen in the club. Another possibility for following up the plan suggested here is a plant program carried on by a member of the organization. This plan also has certain advantages and disadvantages. In the third plan several plants co-operate in exchanging leaders or instructors for this work. We have found that in some cases it is desirable to get away from the word teacher or instructor. The word leader seems to produce a more favorable reaction on the foreman. In the fourth plan the service of an educational expert or engineer is made available for a number of plants. Six an educational director might be supplied by the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, the Chamber of Commerce, or some similar organization, to take care of a program in a number of plants located in the city. In the fifth plan an individual plant hires its own educational director, if it has none. In the sixth plan the public school furnishes expert service to plants. This is a real job for the co-ordinator of part-time education. I shall not take the time to discuss the various plans in detail, Mr. Chairman because you can read and evaluate the chart later. I should like to say, however, that the fifth plan has worked out...
