Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Bulletin of the Department of Labor and Industry, Vol. 7 Another careful piece of work done under the direction of the Industrial Board during this time was the result of statements of certain organizations that the Woman s Law and the Child Labor Act were being freely disregarded in Delaware County, one of the busiest industrial counties of the state. This complaint came to the Industrial Board from the Woman s Section of the State Safety Committee. A number of women inspectors, under the direction of the Woman s Division of the Department, were sent into Delaware County to check up the whole situation. Reports of findings were submitted; violations of law were called to the attention of the Inspection Bureau for correction; and communication with the Department of Public Instruction and with the Public Service Commission took place on the basis of certain findings. The sweeping nature of the charges which started the special survey of Delaware County proved to be by no means justified; yet the Board was glad to have the opportunity to olter a more intensified Departmental service to any section of the state. Incidentally. The desirability of viewing the industrial life of a county unit as a whole was illustrated. The Board was also instrumental in making brief surveys of the labor supply available in certain sections as the demand for labor increased; and followed with interest the work of certain Chambers of Commerce in the state along the line of recruiting available labor. One very important section of the work of the Industrial Board has from the first been the issuance of Safety Standards for the industries of the state. At the time when...
