Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Routing protocol used to search out the most effective path between source to destination additionally as its plays terribly important part of promoting the route of one network to an alternate network. Routing protocol is utilized for the causation scientific discipline (IP) packet from source to destination. EIGRP and OSPF have been regarded as the pre-eminent redirecting methods for the real-time program. To search out a best path between sources to destination node totally different routing protocol used different routing formula (algorithm). Whereas open shortest first path is a link state protocol non-cisco proprietary and enhanced interior gateway routing protocol is a cisco proprietary protocol. Thus packet of OSPF networks cannot reach to EIGRP networks. To resolve that drawback we tend to use Route redistribution (RR) technique. Exploitation Route redistribution (RR) technique we tend to is capable of sending IP packet of one network to another different network. This analysis reports a simulation primarily based Route redistribution (RR) between EIGRP and OSPF. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 84 pp.
