There is nothing in the law of West Virginia to require any teacher to undertake the service herein suggested, but we believe that there are thousands of West Virginia teachers who are bigger in their sympathies and ambition than a salary draft, and we believe that the appeal to such teachers will be strong. In my judgment the opportunities for good to the state and of growth to the individual teacher in this service are limitless. I am therefore confidently expecting a large and enthusiastic response. Let no teacher misunderstand the purpose of this bulletin. In undertaking the work proposed it would be a mistake to follow the outline very closely. The very essence of the project is research and initiative, and many teachers will doubtless be able to devise better plans than those mentioned herein. In such cases the teachers by all means should develop their own plans....
