In addition, the Commercial Intelligence Branch of the Board of Trade, of 73, Basinghall Street, London, is provided with a list of the principal British merchants in China. Useful as catalogues and price lists may be to the merchant in China and to trade, there can be no doubt that the visits of commercial agents to China are of far greater value, and former reproaches seem no longer necessary, for during the last two years such visitors have been numerous. It is impossible for me to say what amount of success has attended them, but they have been able to examine at first hand the conditions of the manufactures and trades they represent, and to collect information which written suggestions can never impart. I have spoken...
